Finding My Ecosystem Buddy Invitation Cards

Hi. I am fungi looking for someone to share my space in the mountains. I will protect if you will obtain food through photosynthesis.	Hi there. I am algae that can photosynthesize enough for two. I need someone who can protect me.
Hola. I am an Acacia tree from the deserts of Central America. My thorns are the perfect shelter for you and your buddies. The tips of my leaves will satisfy your appetite.	Hey. I am an ant searching for a plant home where my buddies are welcome. We promise to protect your precious flesh by stinging your enemies.
Don't be afraid; I won't bite. I swim in the ocean and my shark teeth will never nibble on you. I need someone to keep me clean.	What's up? I am a remora fish. I'd love to swim in the ocean with you. I hope you can overlook that I am a neat freak, but I can't stand to have a messy kitchen.
Hello. I am a seal that lives in the tundra. I am able to stay underwater for long periods of time, but I make holes in the ice because I must come up every five to 15 minutes for air.	Hey there! I am a big polar bear who loves to eat. I walk around all day on the sea ice looking for ice holes and waiting for seals to surface.
Hi. I am an earthworm that likes the moist environment of the soil any place on Earth. I typically like to stay below ground, but sometimes after heavy rainstorms or during mating, I will come to the surface.	They don't say the early bird catches the worm for nothing! I am a red robin and use my keen sense of sight to catch earthworms and other insects.
Hi there. I am a green sea turtle and I have a thick green shell for protection. This acts as my armor from the sharp teeth of some of my predators.	What's up? I am an aggressive tiger shark. I lurk around the edge of coral reefs and I have strong senses. My sharp teeth let me crack through the shells of sea turtles.

Hey there. My web was voted most glistening in the summer sun at the Spider Pageant. I can live anywhere. Come check it out and stay for dinner. I would love to take a bite out of you.	My tiny wings take me flying everywhere to see the sights. I love being a fly. I have to watch out because sometimes I don't see what is in front of me because I am looking at everything else.
I am a barn owl. I sleep all day and hunt at night. I like to live in barns that are in or near forests. My favorite meal is rodents. Want to meet at midnight?	Squeak. I am a field mouse. I have to hide during the day because I can smell all those cats that are out to get me. I like to go out at night when those cats are sound asleep.
I am a Venus flytrap. I live in boggy areas near freshwater. I produce a sweet-smelling, syrupy sap. Come dine on my sweet nectar while I dine on you.	I am a beetle. I fly around looking for food. My favorite is sweet nectar. If you provide me with the nectar, I will be yours forever.
I am a squirrel looking for a date who loves acorns. We can scamper around the forest collecting acorns. I bet I can collect more than you.	I am a chipmunk. I live on the ground near oak trees because I have a fondness for acorns.
I am a cheetah, the fastest carnivore on the savannah. I love to go after antelope. Let's set up a race to see who captures the antelope first.	I am a lioness who can't resist a challenge. My appetite for an antelope is great. I can beat you at any race to win an antelope.
I am a live oak tree. My leaf-covered branches reach out to gather as much sunlight as possible. My branches will intertwine with yours.	I am a pine tree. I love sunlight, and I grow tall so I can get closer to the Sun. I will even grow through your branches to reach the sunlight.
